Poetry is popular again! If you feel that your library's poetry collection has no "rhyme or reason" or you want to know how to better promote your collection, this program is for you. Marsha Howard, librarian at Poets House, will discuss how to develop a poetry collection, including which poets' works are "must-haves" and who the new popular poets are. She will also talk about the different types of programming to create excitement about the genre.

Poets House, located in New York City, is a national poetry library and literary center that invites poets and the public to step into the living tradition of poetry.
