"Vito After"
Maria Pusateri

"Vito After" is the story of Vito Friscia, a Brooklyn homicide detective who survived and bravely helped others on 9/11, then spent months sifting through toxic rubble for signs of those who perished. It is an intimate portrait of a selfless cop and devoted husband and father -- a man whose life was forever changed by that fateful day.

Vito was only a block away -- on his way to join the rescue effort -- when the second tower collapsed. He was engulfed in the treacherous cloud that followed. In the chaotic aftermath, he helped thousands leave the city.

The film follows Vito for two years, beginning April 2002, interweaving interviews, recollections and verite scenes as he mourns, tries to cope, deals with denial and struggles with health problems. It shows him with family, friends and at a poignant gathering with his detective brothers where the men cope with the horrific tragedy by recalling their experiences with humor.

Maria Pusateri is an award-winning director/producer and founder of DreamSlate Productions; Vito Friscia is her brother-in-law.
